

Do You Know Your Rights and Duties As a Renter?

This brochure covers all Tennessee counties EXCEPT: Anderson, Blount, Bradley, Davidson, Hamilton, Knox, Madison, Maury, Montgomery, Rutherford, Sevier, Shelby, Sullivan, Sumner, Washington, Williamson and Wilson.

Renters in these counties have different rights. Please ask for our other brochure for these counties.

Do you live in public or low-cost government housing? Then your rights may be different. Legal Aid or a private lawyer can tell you about your rights.

It is very important for you as a renter to know your rights and duties. No one else will protect your rights for you. These rights can make a big difference in how you are treated by your landlord. Also, you can be evicted if you don't live up to your duties as a renter.

A booklet cannot take the place of legal advice. If you need legal help with a housing problem, you should see a lawyer. The Legal Aid Society for your area may be able to help you for free.

Be smart before you move in

Rent and Expenses

Make sure you have enough money to pay the rent. Your rent should be no more than one-third of your income.

Before you sign the lease, find out how much you will have to pay for:

- Security deposits
- Deposits for water, gas and electricity
- Pet deposits

Don't pay a deposit or fee until you look at the place you want to rent.

Find out how much renter's insurance will cost. It can be very cheap. It can save you a lot of money if you have a fire, flood or a big water spill. Your lease may say you must have renter's insurance. See our booklet "Renter's Insurance."

Check for problems

Always check the place for problems before you sign a lease or move in. Look for a place that is in good shape, safe and fit to live in.

- The plumbing should work
- The electrical wiring should be safe
- The floors and walls should be strong with no holes
- The walls and ceilings should keep out the weather
- If the place comes with a stove or refrigerator, these must work
- Stairs should be safe
- There must be a heater that works and is safe
- Doors and windows should have locks that work

What if you find problems with the place before you move in?

1. Before you sign a lease or move in, make a list of the problems you see. Are small repairs needed? Ask the landlord to fix the problems before you move in. Sign and date the list. Important! Have the landlord sign this list before you sign a lease and move in. Keep a copy of the list in a safe place. You may need it to get your security deposit back when you move out.

2. Are big repairs needed? Don't sign a lease or move in.
3. What if the landlord only promises to fix it after you move in? Is this OK with you? Then have the landlord make a list and say when each will be fixed. You and the landlord both need to sign the paper. Keep a copy.
4. Take pictures when you move in. Save the pictures in a safe place, with a copy of your lease.

The Lease

When you rent a place to live, a spoken agreement with your landlord may be as legal as a written agreement. But it can be very hard to prove later what was said in a spoken agreement. Try to take a friend along to witness any spoken agreement with your landlord. However, it is best to get everything in writing!

A written agreement with your landlord is called a lease. The lease gives both you and the landlord rights and duties. Read all of the lease very carefully. Before you sign it, make sure it says everything you agreed to.

Look for these things in a lease:

- Address of the place you are renting
- Address and phone number of landlord
- How much the rent is
- How long the lease is for
- When rent must be paid
- If pets are OK
- Late fees (the charge for paying the rent late)

- How much the security deposit is and when the landlord can keep it
- Who pays for the electricity, gas, water, etc.
- Who makes repairs; what you must repair; what the landlord must repair
- When you or the landlord can end the lease
- How the lease can be ended
- When the landlord can come in your place without your OK

What does the lease say about what happens if the landlord takes you to court? Does the lease say you must pay for the landlord's lawyer? This means you will have to pay for your landlord's lawyer if:

- The landlord takes you to Court AND
- Proves that you did something wrong

Landlords cannot legally change the locks or shut off the electricity to make you move. This is true even if the lease says they can do these things. Landlords can't make you agree to anything in the lease that is against the law.

Can a landlord take your personal property to pay for back rent or damages? No, not unless the lease says so. Do not sign a lease that says the landlord can do this.

What does the lease say happens in a fire, flood, tornado or natural disaster? Can the landlord keep charging you rent even if the place isn't livable? Don't sign a lease that says this. If it is in the lease, ask the landlord to take it out. Make sure you both sign by the change.

Do you disagree with something in the lease?

Talk to the landlord about it. If you both agree, you can cross out parts of the lease you don't like. You can also add new things to the lease. But BOTH you and the landlord must agree to this.

You and your landlord should put your initials by any changes. This shows you both agree to the changes.

Do NOT sign a lease that has blank spaces. Do you have questions about a lease or disagree with part of it? Don't sign it until you have talked with a lawyer. The Legal Aid Society for your area may be able to help for free. A lease is a legal agreement. Once you have signed a lease, you should do what it says.

Get a Signed Copy

Get a signed copy of the lease and put it in a safe place. Be sure that everyone signs both the lease and the copy. This includes you, the landlord, and everyone who will be a renter.

Rent

You and your landlord should agree about how much the rent is. You should agree about when it must be paid. It is better to have the amount of the rent in writing in the lease. This makes it easier to prove how much rent you owe.

Can the landlord raise the rent before the lease ends? Yes. BUT the landlord must tell you in writing that the rent will go up.

If you have a lease, your landlord must do what it says. For example, it may say you will pay a certain amount of rent for one year. Can the landlord raise the rent during the year? Yes IF he tells you in writing ahead of time. What if the landlord wants to raise the rent at the end of the year? The landlord MUST tell you ahead of time before raising the rent. Usually, you must be told a month ahead.

What if you don't have a lease? Then the landlord can raise the rent. But, you have a right to be told ahead of time about changes in the rent.

Get A Receipt For Your Rent Payments

Pay your rent by check or money order, if you can. Keep copies of your checks or money order receipts. Ask your landlord for a receipt, too. If you have to pay in cash, make sure you always get a receipt. Save all your rent receipts. That way you can prove that you paid.

Security Deposits

A landlord can make you pay a security deposit. This pays for damage you might cause that is more than "normal wear and tear." Get a receipt for the security deposit signed by the landlord. Make sure the receipt says "security deposit" and shows the date and amount paid.

Before you move in, make a list of anything wrong with the place. Then when you move out, you won't be charged for something that was already broken or messed up. Go through the place carefully with the landlord. Make a list of all problems or anything wrong in the place. You and the landlord should both sign this list of problems. Get a signed copy of the list.

Are there things that are broken or messed up from "normal wear and tear?" When you move, you do NOT have to pay for these. This would usually be things like worn floors or a leaky roof. The landlord must pay for these repairs. However, you must pay for any unusual or extra problems you cause. Examples would be a broken window, a hole in the carpet or a broken door.

Read the lease carefully. It says when the landlord can keep your security deposit. When you move, you should get the whole deposit back IF:

- You don't owe any rent;
- You have not broken or messed up the property; and
- You have not broken the lease.

Don't wait too long to ask for your deposit back! If the landlord keeps your deposit wrongly, you may go to court to get it back.

Landlord's Duty to Repair the Place

When you move in, the place must be in safe condition. It should follow health code rules. For example, the sinks and toilet should work. The electrical wiring should be safe. The floors and walls should be strong with no holes. The walls and roof should keep out the weather. If the place comes with a stove, refrigerator or heater, these must work.

If they have to be fixed, make sure it is done before you move in. If the landlord promises to fix things, get it in writing and signed by the landlord.

The landlord must also keep the areas that everyone uses safe. Example: Do you live in a large apartment building? The landlord must keep the sidewalks and stairs in the building in good repair. They must not be dangerous for the people who live there.

Tell your landlord right away about problems that happen after you move in. Your landlord should fix things as soon as possible after that.

The landlord should repair emergency problems immediately. A broken heater or burst water pipe would be examples of an emergency problem.

What if the landlord doesn't make repairs?

In some cases, the local Building Inspector can help. Call the county health department. Ask the Building Inspector to check to see if your place is safe and livable. He or she will do this IF these three things are true:

1. Your rent is $200 or less a week;
2. Your rent is paid up; and
3. You file a written complaint about the problems with the place.

The inspector may find that the landlord is breaking the State Housing Code rules. The inspector can then make the landlord fix things. You may also want to call Legal Aid about these rights. This law can help you make your landlord keep your place in good shape.

Note: It is against the law for the landlord to evict you for complaining to the Building Inspector.

In other cases, you may sue the landlord or cancel the lease if the landlord doesn't make repairs. Check with a lawyer to see what you can do. Legal Aid Society may be able to help you for free.

Your Duties as a Renter

You must pay your rent on time and do what the lease says. When you leave, the place should be in as good shape as when you moved in. Make sure you take all your property from the inside and outside. Don't leave anything. When you leave, take pictures of the inside and outside of the home. This shows you left the home in good shape. Read your lease carefully. It may give you other duties, such as cutting the grass or not having pets.

Your Rights as a Renter

Your most important right is the right to "quiet enjoyment." This means that you have the right to live peacefully in the place you rent. The landlord can't bother you or keep you from enjoying your place. He or she can't harass you. No matter what the lease says, the landlord can't lock you out to make you move. The landlord can't shut off your electricity or water to make you move. The landlord can't throw your belongings out. This is against the law. Except in an emergency, the landlord can't come into your place without your OK.

Fair Housing is the Law

It is illegal for a landlord to treat you differently from others because of:

- Your race, color or nationality OR
- Your sex OR
- Your religion OR
- Because you are pregnant or have children who live with you OR

- Because you, or someone you live with or plan to live with, has a disability OR
- Because someone you spend time with has a disability.

This law does not apply in every case. To find out more, call the Tennessee Fair Housing Council at 1-800-254-2166. Or, call the Tennessee Human Rights Commission at 1-800-325-9664. Or call Housing and Urban Development at 1-800-440-8091. These are free calls.

Special Rights of Renters With Disabilities

You have a right to make reasonable changes to your place. This includes things like adding a wheelchair ramp. You have to pay for the changes yourself.

If you need it because of a disability, landlords must bend their usual rules. This is to give you an equal chance to use and enjoy your place. For example, a “no-pets” apartment must let a blind person keep a seeing-eye dog.

Here are some people who have these rights because of their disability:

- People who don’t see or hear well
- People with mental retardation
- People using wheelchairs
- People with AIDS or HIV virus
- People with mental illness

To find out more about this law, call the Tennessee Disability Information Office at 1-800-640-4636. You can also call the Tennessee Fair Housing Council at 1-800-254-2166. These are free calls.

Evictions and Renters’ Rights

Landlords can’t legally change the locks or shut off the electricity to make you move. This is true even if the lease says they can do these things. This is true even if you are behind on rent or you have broken the lease.

To evict you, a landlord must give you “notice.” Notice is warning time. Then the landlord must go to court to have you put out. You can sue a landlord who tries to illegally force you to leave.

What if your place is destroyed by a fire, flood or tornado? Was it your fault? If not, you can move out. Most of the time, the landlord can’t charge you any rent after the fire, flood or tornado. BUT check your lease. If the lease says it’s OK, your landlord can keep charging you rent.

Notice (warning time) before eviction

You have a right to warning before an eviction. This is called notice. The landlord gives you “notice” by telling you to move in a certain number of days. The landlord can’t take the next step to evict you until:

1. You get notice and
2. The notice time is past

How much notice time do you get?

Most of the time it depends on how often you pay rent. If you agreed to pay rent each week, you get 7 days’ notice.

Do you pay rent every 2 weeks or once a month? Then the amount of notice you get depends on the reason for the eviction.

You get 14 days notice IF:

- You have not paid the rent on time OR
- You, someone who lives with or visits you breaks something or messes up the place. Breaking or messing up the place means more than normal wear and tear. OR
- You or anyone who lives with or visits you is violent. This means they do something dangerous to someone else’s:
 - Health
 - Safety
 - Well-being or happiness
 - Life or
 - Stuff

What if you get the 14 days notice but don't want to move? Are you being evicted because of late rent or breaking or messing up the place? Then during the 14 days, pay the rent or pay for or fix what you broke or messed up. If you pay or fix things in that time, the landlord CAN'T evict you. But what if you do the same thing again within in 6 months? Then the landlord can give you 14 days' notice and evict you. You can't stay even if you fix the problem again.

You get 30 days notice IF:

- You paid rent on time AND
- You did NOT break or mess up the place AND
- You didn't do anything violent AND
- You didn't threaten anyone or their property AND
- No one living with or visiting you has been violent
- BUT you broke other parts of the lease

You can only be evicted sooner if you agreed to a different amount of notice.

What if you are not the one who did these things? Was it someone who lived with you? Or was it someone you invited over? Then you can still be evicted.

Your landlord does not need a good reason to evict you. But the landlord can't evict you for illegal reasons, such as your race.

Court Eviction

Your landlord must go to Court to evict you. If you don't move out during the notice time, the landlord can go to court.

First the landlord must get a Detainer Warrant. A detainer warrant is not a warrant for your arrest. It is the paper that tells you when to go to court. Going to court lets you tell the judge your side of the story. If you don't go to court, you will lose. Then the landlord will have the right to have you put out. He can do this 10 days after the day you were supposed to go to court. If your landlord takes you to Court, you should try to get a lawyer to help you. Legal Aid Society may be able to help you.

How do you get the detainer warrant? It will be brought to you at your home or work. Usually a sheriff's deputy brings it. But it can be another adult. It can't be the landlord or someone who works for the landlord. They give the detainer warrant to an adult in your household.

Can they leave the detainer warrant on your door? Yes, but only if:

- The landlord isn't asking for money from you AND
- He just wants the Judge to make you leave

Don't worry about understanding all the detainer warrant says. Look for the date it tells you to be in court. The court date must be at least 6 days after you get the warrant. Some counties may give you more time.

You have a right to a court hearing. At the hearing, the landlord must say why he or she wants you to move. You can also tell the judge your side of the story.

If you have a lease, the landlord can evict you when the lease ends. But the landlord still has to take you to Court. What if the landlord wants to evict you before that? The landlord must prove to the judge that you broke the lease.

What if you don't have a written lease that says when the lease will end? Then the landlord can evict you at any time. But first, the landlord must give you the right amount of notice time. Then if you don't leave, the landlord must go to court. The landlord doesn't need a good reason to evict you. But, the landlord can't evict you for illegal reasons.

Tell the judge if the landlord didn't give you the right amount of notice before going to court.

What if the judge decides that you must move out? You still have 10 days to move after the court hearing. After 10 days, the sheriff's department can set you and your stuff out.

What if you disagree with the judge's decision?

You have a right to appeal within 10 days.

Do you want to stay in your place until your appeal goes to court? In some cases, you can. There is a special way to do that. But, it is not for every case.

Using Chapter 13 bankruptcy to stop eviction

You may be able to stop an eviction with a Chapter 13 bankruptcy. This may stop an eviction even if you broke the lease. To find out more, see our booklet on Chapter 13. If you want to do a Chapter 13, see a lawyer right away.

The bankruptcy must be filed before your landlord gets a court order to evict you.

This booklet cannot take the place of legal advice. Each case is different and needs individual attention. If you need advice, talk to a lawyer. 8/15

How long do you have before you can be evicted?

Steps the landlord takes:

1. Landlord tells you to move out by a certain date.

How long it is before the next step? It depends on how often you pay rent or how long the landlord says. See pages 11 and 12.

2. You get a detainer warrant to go to court.

You have at least 6 days until the court hearing.

3. Court hearing

If you lose in court, you have at least 10 more days to move out. During that 10 days you can also file an appeal.

4. After the 10 days, the sheriff can set you out.
