

TOP FIVE

Things to know about your rights if you are experiencing domestic violence and need help with a protective order during the COVID-19 pandemic.

1 Although public spaces are closed, you can still apply for a protective order from the Courts anytime in Tennessee. Tennessee counties have systems to allow you to apply for a protective order.

2 Domestic violence is a crime. You have the right to be safe from violence.

3 Tennessee law protects victims of domestic violence by allowing victims to apply for protective orders. Protective orders can include provisions that require an abuser to have no contact with the victim of violence and other orders that will assist in the prevention of future acts of violence.

4 Legal Aid Society's attorneys and volunteers are providing information and legal advice by phone to clients during the public health crisis.

5 Tennessee has a variety of resources for victims of domestic violence, including shelter, crisis hotline services. Call 1-800-356-6767 (TN) for crisis assistance in your area.

If you have questions about this information, please call the Legal Aid Society at 1-800-238-1443.

Legal Aid Society of Middle Tennessee & the Cumberlands
Working Together. Doing Justice. Restoring Hope.

The opinions, findings, and conclusions or recommendations expressed in this publication/program/exhibition are those of the author(s) and do not necessarily reflect the views of the Department of Justice, Office of Justice Programs, Office for Victims of Crime, or the State of Tennessee Office of Criminal Justice Programs. This project was supported by Award No 2016-VA-GX-0053 awarded by the Office for Victims of Crime, Office of Justice Programs, U.S. Department of Justice through the Tennessee Office of Criminal Justice Programs